ABSTRACT

Measuring instrument for hanging masses machines which operate with traction cables, including a (1) in which some extreme stops (2) incorporated to support the cables (9) of application, having in the central area a cable (9) pressure element (6), made up of a cylinder which is held on a support (4) with inclusion of some cylindrical washers (8) that can be substituted, by means of which a selective separation of the cylinder (6) is established respect to the body (1) for the passage of the cables (9) application.

15

10

1

20

25

30